

The results of QSWURankings by Subject 2021 indicate that the Italian higher education sector excels more broadly in the Arts & Humanities and in the social sciences and management disciplines. Università Commerciale Luigi Bocconi is the world's seventh-best university for business & management studies, and ranks 14th for accounting & finance.

Moreover, Italian universities have been among the world leaders in leading the research response to COVID-19. Elsevier's Scopus database, which QSWURankings by Subject uses to track university research production, identifies ITALY as the world's fourth-largest contributor to covid-related research output.
